Anti-Dope

BY FREDERIC J. HASKINS
Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

Washington, D. C., June 25.—That the powerful and well-organized forces which conducted the campaign for national prohibition, now turn their attention to the traffic in habit-forming drugs is the suggestion made by some students of drug addiction in this country.

There are more than a million drug addicts in the United States; drug addiction is steadily increasing; the illicit drug-sellers have a national organization and are making enormous profits; native-born Americans make up most of the army of drug addicts; and the United States probably leads the world in the per capita consumption of opium and cocaine. These are the facts, and with regard to this traffic which were brought out by the investigating committee appointed by the secretary of the treasury.

The committee's investigation further showed that the present federal law is not curbing the traffic; that most of the state and municipal governments are doing nothing effectual against it; that outside of the larger cities there is no realization, either among officials or on the part of the public, of the extent and danger of drug addiction in this country.

Campaign Needed

Here, surely, is a situation which calls for a campaign of propaganda and education such as that which put over the prohibition amendment. Public sentiment must be aroused before anything can be accomplished. And whereas prohibition is at best a debatable measure, there is no question or argument about the damage done by habit-forming drugs. They destroy life, create vice and crime, incapacitate workers, and there is no such thing as curing them with them.

"Any one repeatedly taking a narcotic drug over a period of 30 days, in the case of a susceptible individual for 10 days, is in grave danger of becoming an addict. And when addiction has been established, it is impossible for the individual to discontinue the use of the drug without outside assistance," says the report of the investigation committee.

This paragraph surely should be posted in large letters where everyone can read it. It destroys the illusion that only the weak and the degenerate are in danger from drug addiction. It means that anyone may acquire a habit in the hands of a careless or unscrupulous physician which he cannot possibly throw off of his own unaided will.

The committee also asserts that there is no such thing as using the narcotic drugs without damage to physical and mental health. The physical condition of the drug addict is now recognized by physicians as a definite diseased state, in which the desire to continue taking and overdoses are affected. The drug addict will almost invariably resort to any crime which is necessary to obtain the drug. Complete insanity is often the ultimate effect.

China Recognizes Danger

These facts show plainly that the habit-forming narcotics are as dangerous to a nation as can be saved only by keeping them out of the country. China recognized this fact long ago and acted upon it. But the United States is permitting a large illicit traffic in these drugs to go on, and an equally large amount to be dispensed in the form of patent medicines and by physicians, much of which reaches addicts.

The control of the trade through so-called legitimate channels is a matter of education and of federal, state and municipal legislation. The recently amended Harrison law is a carefully considered step toward federal control of the traffic, and New York city is making good progress in working out the municipal legislation.

But the best part of the situation is that over half of the enormous quantity of opium consumed in this country (enough to give every man, woman and child 33 doses a year) is smuggled over the borders and distributed by illicit peddlers. The bootlegging of liquor, which fills so much space in the papers, is a comparatively harmless business compared to this opium-smuggling trade with its international organization and its millions of helpless customers, whom it is killing by slow poison.

The largest part of this smuggling and dope comes across the long Mexican border. The internal revenue office cannot even pretend to patrol it with its present force. Opium crosses the Oxford, England, June 25.—General Pershing and Herbert C. Hoover represented the United States today in a distinguished company of notables from the allied countries who were honored by Oxford university with degrees of doctor of civil law.

None of the spectators who crowded the theater followed the proceedings with keener interest than a handful of American army students who have been studying here.

Those upon whom the degrees were conferred included Gen. Pershing, Mr. Hoover, Baron Makino, head of the Japanese peace conference delegation; Marshal Joffre of France; Vice Admiral Sir David Beatty, and Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig.

Premier Ignace Jan Paderewski of Poland received a degree by proxy.

The degree was given to Pershing and Hoover by Oxford university with degrees of doctor of civil law.

PEACE VOTE FAILS TO GET ACTION

SENATE COMMITTEE AD-

TWO-HOUR DISCUS-

TREATY, LEAGUE, ARE UP IN SENATE

Borah Answers Thomas' Charge
Of Playing Partisan Politics.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

Washington, June 25.—After two hours discussion today of the resolution of Senator Full, republican, New Mexico, to declare a state of peace with Germany the senate foreign relations committee adjourned without action.

Efforts to press the resolution met with vigorous opposition, although it was said there would be considerable sentiment among opponents of the League of nations in favor of bringing the League into the Senate later. The vote by which the foreign relations committee postponed action on the Full resolution was 12 to 4 and was said to have followed a stormy discussion in executive session.

Senator Swanson, democrat of Virginia, was understood to have made the motion to adjourn without action and it was said to have been supported by Senators Lodge, Knox, Harring, McCumber, New and Brandege, republicans, and Swanson, Hitchcock, Ponson, Smith (Arizona), Pittman and Shields, democrats. Voting in the negative were Senators Full, Borah, Johnson, California, and Moses, republicans.

Senate Discusses Treaty

Discussion of the peace treaty and the League of nations developed in the senate during consideration of the army appropriation bill. Senator Borah declared the treaty was "a guarantee of war." He said the "acid test" of the document was not its application of the principle of self-determination, or peoples to the people of enemy countries, but to peoples dominated by the allies.

Senate, Korea, and Egypt, Senator Borah asserted, should have been given.

"I am not criticizing the president for what he failed to do," said Mr. Borah. "He was prevented by the imperialistic designs of the European nations with which he was associated. There is no doubt that the sentiment of America included Ireland."

Borah Answers Thomas

Mr. Thomas, democrat, Colorado, who declared partisan politics was involved in the Borah resolution recently adopted by the senate, requesting a hearing at the peace conference for Irish republicans.

Although a number of senators had expressed a desire to discuss some minor amendments when consideration of the army appropriation bill was resumed in the senate today, leaders predicted that passage of the measure before adjournment was certain.

As amended, in accordance with the committee recommendation, the bill provides for an average army of four hundred thousand men for the year beginning July 1 as compared to the $500,000 figure urged by Secretary Baker and the 300,000 strength fixed in the house bill. Another amendment adopted fixes the annual salary of C. W. Flare, director of sales, and in charge of the disposal of surplus war material, at $12,000 instead of the rate of $25,000 which he is now paid.

The proposal to make permanent the rank of general conferred upon General Pershing early in the war failed on a point of order.

KAISER HEARS OF PEACE; IS SHOCKED; GOES ON SAWING LOGS

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

Amerongen, Tuesday, June 24.—News of Germany's decision to accept the peace terms of the Allies, providing for the delivery of the former German emperor to the allies, reached the castle late yesterday. Exactly how the former emperor was affected by the tidings cannot be ascertained but the attitude of members of his party gives rise to the belief that the news was a considerable shock to him.

Spontaneous talk with attendants they declared the news was already known at the castle. They made the most scathing criticisms of the German national assembly for its action.

Exactly how the former emperor was affected by the tidings cannot be ascertained but the attitude of members of his party gives rise to the belief that the news was a considerable shock to him.

At noon a basket dinner was served on the lawn. In the afternoon there was a ball game between the farmers of Amerongen. Numerous races, relay, potato masher, women's and a tug of war were in order.

The feature of the program was the address which Harold R. Bruce, professor of political science, at the university, gave. He spoke on "United States and the League of Nations."

His address consisted of treating of the peace treaty and terms showing that the treaty and the League of Nations are inseparable.

He said, "The peace treaty preserves very largely the old-time jealousies of the European nations, but the League of nations provides an essential note of idealism. It is the heart of the body. It is the hope of world peace, in Europe and the world.

In detail the provisions of the convention were outlined by the speaker showing that provision is made for the settlement of disputes.

"The convention offers the only avenue of escape from the alliance and the secret diplomacy that has characterized European history.

The success of this venture is almost fully dependent upon our participation in it, for we are the only nation free of political jealousies and partisanship of Europe.

WETS WIN 2.5 PCT. BEER IN STATE

WISCONSIN SENATE VOTES
18-14 FOR MULBERGER
SUBSTITUTE.

SEARCH-SEIZURE' BILL IS ADDED

Law Takes Effect Jan. 1, 1920;
People To Vote On Issue No-
tember Of That Year.

BY FRED L. HOLMES.

Madison, June 25.—The "wets" won a decisive victory in the upper house of the Wisconsin legislature Tuesday evening, when by a vote of 18 to 14, the senate adopted the Mulberger substitute, permitting the sale of beer containing 5 percent of alcohol as a non-intoxicating beverage. Action on the measure came at the close of an all day session at which nothing but dry enforcement measures were considered. It is expected that the Mulberger bill, as amended, will arrive in the assembly Thursday.

The vote on the adoption of the Mulberger substitute was as follows:

For: Senators Arnold, Benfey, Bennett, Beyer, Bilgrien, Bird, Burke, Fons, Jennings, Kleist, Mulberger, Nye, Peterson, Pullen, Schultz, Stevens, Wilkinson, Zumach—18.

Against: Senators Anderson, Buck, Conant, Cunningham, Dohrn, Fink, Hulbert, Kunkel, Olson, Roche, Stevenson, Stogren, Staudemeyer, Wilcox and Witter—14.

Absent and not voting: Senator Clark.

As the bill emerged in its final form, it provides for the appointment of a prohibition commissioner by the governor for a term of four years at a salary of $4,000, and a $15,000 annual appropriation of $15,000 to carry out the provisions of the act.

After stating that the "wets" had adopted the Mulberger substitute without a vote, the king said:

"The king began his address by affirming the unalterable concord between Spain and Vatican and added: 'Spain, which manifested her unshaken adherence to the principles of the League of Nations and unshaken support of the League's principles, has been unshaken except for the fact that the minister at Petrograd was withdrawn in consequence of the events there.'

After stating that Spain had recognized the independence of Poland, Czechoslovakia and Finland, the king said: "Spain, which manifested her unshaken adherence to the principles of the League of Nations and had had the honor to be included in the provisory executive committee of the organization."

He closed by announcing that various bills looking to national development, popular education, housing and other matters of social welfare would be introduced before the cortes by the government.

TEACHERS' PENSION SYSTEM TO BE REVISED

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
Madison, June 25.—That the teachers' pension system will have to be revised and improved is the report of the special joint legislative committee appointed to look into the matter following charges made on the floor of the senate early in the session that the fund was insolvent.

The special committee, composed of Senators Kuckuck, Nye, and Conant, and Assemblymen Williams, R. K. Hanson, Delaney, and Foster, did not find that the fund is insolvent at present, but in its report to the legislature declared that the present system could not long be continued and recommended that a special interim committee be appointed to investigate the matter further. Every school teacher in the state outside Milwaukee contributes to this fund and the effect of these proposals are far-reaching. The teachers' pension fund was created in 1911 "without adequate study of the subject and without advice of an actuary."

"Strange as it may seem," says the report, "no attention was given to the question of future liability in 1917, when the board sought the advice of the actuary of the insurance department, who made a valuation of the annuities as of Dec. 31, 1917, and pointed out to the retirement fund board several things in the law that, in his opinion, should be changed."

The Hungarians, the message adds, have expressed willingness to comply with those conditions.

ANTI-DOPE LEAGUE URGED BY HASKINS

The Canadian border is the next most important port of entry for dope, the French and other small craft are often used. On both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts opium is landed in considerable quantities in small craft that run the breakwaters, or use little wilderness harbors.

Opium Is Smuggled

Smuggling the opium into the country is probably the easiest part of the business. Scaling it is more difficult.

Taxicabs, drivers, servants, porters, lunch room helpers, solicitors, messengers, post room employees, laundrymen and gamblers are given by the police of various cities as the occupational types that most often act as distributors. But a great variety of ingenious methods are used to distribute the illicit goods. Walking sticks with hollow handles have been used so often that they are no longer considered safe by the peddlers. A cripple successfully sold opium which he carried in the pads on the arm-rests of his crutches. A well-dressed and refined-looking woman sold opium in peanuts from which the kernel had been removed. Postcards with raised lettering have been found containing considerable quantities of dope, and it has been sold under stamps affixed to letters. Opium has been baked into jello and substituted for the works of watches. It has been carried in a glass eye and the hump of a hunchback has been found to contain hundreds of dollars worth of it. This system of distribution, as above stated, is organized and generally speaking it works well. There was some little difficulty during war time, but the peddler who has money does not usually have much trouble in getting his dope.

It seems clear that unless this illicit trade can be broken up, drug addiction is bound to continue to increase. The sale of dope cannot be prevented by licensing druggists and physicians while this vast criminal enterprise thrives and grows. The greatest committee recommended will take the matter up with the other members of the international opium convention, and especially with the Canadian and Mexican governments.

It seems to some that the United States could afford to place heavy enough patrols on the borders to break up the smuggling business. If we can afford to keep several thousand men on the Mexican border to prevent the Mexican revolutionists from firing an occasional shot into El Paso, we should be able to afford a larger organization than we have to prevent the smugglers from bringing tons of opium into this country. The treasury committee estimates the economic loss due to the opium traffic at over two hundred millions a year. This would support quite a border police.

PEACE and WAR

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Germany has proved slow in making known to the peace conference her representation at the formal signing of the treaty.

Confidence circles are reported somewhat uneasy over the lack of advices as regards the personnel of the German delegation and the time of its coming.

Arrangements for the ceremony are being held up.

It is still hoped in Paris that the treaty will be signed Friday, but the exact time may go over until the following day.

Everything manifestly now depends on the time of the arrival of the German delegates.

It is expected the new Italian delegation, headed by Tommaso Tittoni, the new Italian foreign minister, will arrive in Paris Friday, the 28th.

The action of Italy relative to the treaty with Austria.

There are several important matters still to be adjusted before the remainder of the Austrian delegation and it is expected the Italian delegation will lose no time in bringing before the supreme council of the conference the demands of its country.

France and presumably the other allied and associated nations are prepared for eventualities should the Germans fail to carry out the provisions of the treaty which is ready for the signature of the delegates.

Premier Clemenceau in replying to questions of members of the conference, said, "deplored relative to demobilization, said, 'deplored that precautions were necessary in view of the state of mind of the Germans,'" the premier pointing out that the destruction of German ships in Scapa Flow and at Kiel showed the "spirit in which the Germans will sign the treaty."

Dispatches from Berlin indicate that feeling over the peace situation is growing high in German military circles, officers speaking of "defending the honor of the German army and its leaders" by adopting "special measures."

Formal approval has been given by the supreme council of the conference to the plan of giving Belgium reparations in the amount of about $500,000,000.

HOUSEWIVES URGED TO PLACE GROCERY ORDERS EARLY IN DAY

Boy Scout News

Edited by Walter W. Fetts.

No assurance will be given by grocery stores for 10 o'clock deliveries of orders received after 9 o'clock in the morning in the future. This decision was reached at a meeting last night at which the organization of the grocers' division of retailers of the Chamber of Commerce was permanently elected. William H. Taylor was elected chairman for the year.

The matter of the cooperative deliveries was discussed at length. It was pointed out that delay of one hour will in planting the older and more efficient grocery delivery all over the city. With a little cooperation on the part of housewives, late deliveries which have become so common can be entirely eliminated, it is figured.

It was decided that only orders placed the preceding afternoon could be assured delivery on the 8 o'clock morning route. Little trouble is being experienced on the two afternoon deliveries.

A committee composed of H. M. Dredick, chairman, John Jones, and E. R. Winslow was appointed to investigate the matter of cooperative buying and a cooperative warehouse, to reduce the cost of retail products.

William Taylor, William Grunzel, and Harry R. Day were chosen as the west side committee for the sale of tickets to the retailers' dinner, July 3. E. C. Baumann will direct the east side sale.

Mrs. Margaret Mietinger has returned from Madison, where she has been attending Edgewood academy for the past year.

It appears that the war department not only favored the south by putting American soldiers to work on the roads at the rate of $1 a day and compelled them to work along with other laborers who were paid $5 a day, but put through a $8,000,000
"pork" project.Senator Lenroot scathingly attacked Secretary Baker for permitting such a grab. The matter came up in connection with the action of the war department transferring the infantry school of arms from the big government tract at Fort Sill, Okla., to Camp Benning at Columbus, Ga.
One hundred and fifteen acres were purchased for the new site. It was shown that the project was undertaken after the armistice was signed.Senator Lenroot in referring to Secretary Baker, said: "I say deliberately that such an act in time of peace would come very close to leading to his impeachment."Is the public going to stand for a man of Baker's calibre continuing in the important office of secretary of war? All through the tumult of war, Baker has made mistakes. What has been accomplished by the war department has resulted without his guidance rather than with it. He has been playing politics from the start.
He has tried to make a showing for the administration; he has made it alright but it is a sorry spectacle. He has been a poor guesser. He was not big enough for the job when the real task loomed and he has not grown any since.Senator Lenroot read from testimony of Gen. March to show that Baker did not approve of the plan to purchase an acre of land at Columbus until Nov. 15, 1918, after the armistice had been signed.Senator Lenroot declared that nothing could be done about the matter at this time, but served notice that such acts could not be perpetrated in the future. He is right. The people are tired of an administration which has wasted millions of dollars while it makes personal sacrifices to raise funds to carry on that waste.

RESOURCEFULNESS.

Everyone knows of the great work
the American Red Cross has done, especially during the war, but few of the individual accomplishments of the men and women are told. The following will give an idea of the resourcefulness of one of the workers:"With nothing but an ordinary razor, a spool of No. 40 cotton thread, and a small portion of ether and chloroform at her disposal an American Red Cross nurse performed a life-or-death operation here, as the result of which and her other errands of mercy she has come to be known as 'The American Angel' by the homeless and starving Greek refugees."Miss Maria P. Kouroyen is the American girl's name. Born of Greek parents she was educated in Massachusetts and is a graduate nurse of the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston."Living in a boxcar on a railroad siding Miss Kouroyen one night recently saw a Greek soldier bearing a limp bundle over his shoulder. The bundle was carefully placed on the floor of the boxcar and unwrapped. Within was an aged Greek with the pallor of suffering upon his face. Around his right leg was a rude tourniquet of rope. Filthy bandages covered the rope."He fell off the roof of a train under the wheels of a car while faint from lack of food," exclaimed the Greek soldier. "The local doctor says it is no use to take him to a hospital as he will die on the way. We have no surgeons here and the British surgeons are not in town. Something must be done for him at once or he will die.""Miss Kouroyen spent no time in talking. Quickly she unwrapped the leg, the bone of which had been crushed in the accident. Miss Kouroyen borrowed a razor, and while it was sterilized in alcohol, anesthetized her patient with her small supply of ether and chloroform and amputated
the bone with other primitive means.
With cotton thread No. 40 she tied off the arteries and veins and then cut away the loose flesh. The leg was then bound in an alcohol dressing.""Despite the prophecy that the aged patient would not live through the night, Miss Kouroyen some time later received a visit from her patient.
He had an American artificial limb made especially for him in the American Red Cross artificial leg factory for Greek war mutes in Athens."

A SANITARY PROGRAM

Mayor Welsh in discussing the need for a better sanitary program for Janesville made a suggestion which has a great deal of merit and should be considered by the aldermen. The mayor believes that a sanitary district should be formed in which all outhouses must be removed within a period of time that would allow citizens to make the change without hardship. This zone, he believes, should embrace all territory where houses are close together. This would not force the resident living on the outskirts to put in sewerage when it is not actually needed. It is his plan to extend the time to December 31, 1920.Alderman Dulm's ordinance for taking care of the situation was a step in the right direction and would not have met opposition if the time limit on which the changes would have to be made was not so short that it would have imposed a burden. Thecouncil should, however, take immediate steps to draft some program for caring for an adequate sanitary plan.Germany is committing all the

that it is desirable to exterminate?

N. B. V. A. The biological survey of the department of agriculture, has made a careful study of birds to determine which of them do more harm than good. It makes out a clear case against the English sparrow, and recommends its destruction. Of 50 varieties of hawk, three kinds, the Cooper hawk, the sharp-shinned hawk and the goshawk, are cut-throats, while all the others are helpful.The crow does about as much good as harm, as does the blue jay. All other birds are helpful to men.Q. What branch of the army stood highest in the psychological tests given during the war? P. G. L.A. The best ratings were attained by the engineer corps.Q. What nation first adopted khaki for use as army uniforms? A. J.The British forces in India originated the use of khaki uniforms in the eighteenth century. The word

"khaki" is an east Indian word meaning "dust color." The reason for using this color is so the wearer cannot be readily seen at a distance. It is an early example of camouflage.Q. What was the shortest time in which a ship ever crossed the Atlantic? S. J. W.A. The record is held by the Mauritanian of the Cunard line, which in September, 1910, made the trip from New York to Queenstown in four days, 10 hours and 41 minutes.Q. Are there any communities in the United States where one may get married without a license?A. Our legal adviser informs us that a license must be secured before a marriage ceremony may be performed
anywhere in the United States.ON THE SPUR

ANTICIPATION

I was born in the Year of the big Thirst. My father was born on that dry July of the First. My father as I remember him now, stayed home all day and drank milk from the cow, of course he looked sore as he naturally should, for taking his stuff that was drawn from the wood, and he preached all day of a man's liberty, and why cut out whiskey he never could see,
but that she just sat there and smiled
a sweet smile, as she looked in the ad's for the latest in style, and thought to herself of the things she would buy, with the money pa saved since the country went dry. Now a good many years have gone their way,
since what the old boys call the Fatal Day, and the old fellows meet and remembered "when, then, there" look comes on our faces again, but the lads that were born after that day, see no such thing as much dismay and mano notice as has the smile and she's always dressed in the latest style, there's good good things to eat always on hand and the new piano is simply grand. The morale of this, I do not know, but if it makes things better it should be so, but I know of many a thing that ma has bought that she never could buy since before they were still wet.The border country is admirably endowed by nature for these lawless doings. It is flat, near-desert country, dry for farming, but the day
is supported by the skeets of chaparral and mesquite, which makes one of the most dense and impenetrable covers in the world. That part of the country which lies within the Big Bend of the Rio Grande is an especially dense jungle of this kind. It swarms with game. The desert white tail deer, the peccary, the wild boar,
and the Mexican quail are abundant.
This supply of wild meat makes it easy for a Mexican, who knows where the water holes are, to hide out for long periods.

Here lies the bones of Ezra Jones.
He kissed his girl one night.
He heard of deadly microbes but

And make his living by his verse,
He starved to death, you know it.

When Did She Get a $2.75 Hat?

There are 500,000 words in the English language, and the Fayette Advertiser declares that most of them were used Sunday by a Fayette woman who discovered, after coming home from church, that her new hat was adorned with a tag on which was written: "Reduced to $2.75."A playwright unwinding a hank of spaghetti in a gilded eatery the other night suddenly saw a former wife at an opposite table. He bowed and she bowed and he got so nervous being watched that he nonchalantly stuck
the spaghetti in his pocket and with great dignity walked out.Having read all the dope carefully after it had been written by the world's greatest experts on fistcuffs,
we have drawn the following conclusions:
That Willard and Dempsey areboth going to win inside of eight rounds; that it would be impossible for any man in the world to kick either of them, and that the way to get 200 percent is to bet on both of them.Dear Roy—I read that Mr. Carranza rages at Speaker Gillette. Well,

APPOINT REFEREE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Toledo, June 25.—Selection of a referee for the heavyweight championship contest between Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey here July 4, may be announced today. The Young Men's association is to make a determined effort to obtain a list of ring officials acceptable to Willard and the Toledo boxing commission, which must be consulted before a final selection is made. Jack Kearns, manager of Dempsey, last night furnished Rickard with a list of officials acceptable to the challenger.The list included: Billy Roche of New York; Tom Selsky, Yonkers, N. Y.;
Jack Welch of San Francisco; Ollie Record of Toledo; Kid McPartland of
New York; Walter Kelly of Buffalo;
Bill Brown of New York, and Jim Griffin of San Francisco. Welch was referee of the Willard-Johnson championship contest in Havana.Willard, it developed today, is holding up the selection of a referee. Willard, it was said, is claiming the right in virtue of the fact that he is champion to name the third man in the ring. The champion's contentions are not conceded either by Rickard, Kearns or officials of the boxing commission board.Despite the plans of the boxing commission board to have a referee and two judges decide the contest, it was reported as almost certain today that the bout will be judged solely by a referee. Neither Willard nor Kearns favor the judge plan.Boxing experts were agreed today that Dempsey in his workout yesterday showed vast improvement. The challenger's work was fast and furious throughout.Willard boxed ten tame rounds and did not extend himself at any time.

GRADUATION TIME
Graduation time again!
Boys are changing into men,
Stamping from the fields of play
Where they romped but yesterday
Out into life's great rolling mill,
Some important place to fill.Once again the doors are swung
To receive our sturdy young;
Once again an eager class
Waits the moment it may pass
Out of boyhood into life
Where the game is real, strife.Well we know what care awaits
All who step beyond the gates
Swinging open wide today.
Long ago we trod the way
We now know what they shall find
Who are leaving youth behind.Fame and fortune life will give
To the men who rightly live;
It will try with tests severe
Every boy who passes here,
But we wonder, as he goes,
If life's secret now he knows.Does he know that men must earn Every joy for which they yearn?
Does he know that none but he Shapes the future that's to be
And that he, not life, shall say
What rewards shall crown his day.Boy, now entering manhood's field,
As you give life shall yield.
Life shall drown you if you stand

RECREATIONAL PLANS FOR SEASON OUTLINED BY PLAYGROUND HEAD

The complete program for Janesville's four playgrounds and two swimming beaches for the summer was announced today by Supervisor G. Heineman, who arrived from his home in La Crosse, Saturday, to take over recreational work for the entire city. The four playgrounds—at the Washington, Webster, Adams, and Jefferson schools—will be open from 9 to 11:30 a.m., 2 to 5 p.m., and 7 to 8:30 p.m., every day except Sunday. They will be closed Saturday evenings.

The two swimming beaches will be guarded every afternoon, except Sunday from 2 to 5 o'clock, and every evening from 7 to 8:30, except Saturday and Sunday evenings. The bath houses will be locked at 8:30 sharp. The open dressing rooms may be used by those who wish to remain after.

The personnel of the force in charge will be: G. Heineman, general supervisor; John Thompson, Beloit college life guard and swimming instructor; Misses Hanson, Foster, Swan, and Turner, playground supervisors.

Organization of the work at the playgrounds will be completed shortly to such an extent that inter-playground competitive games of baseball, tennis, and volleyball can be staged. All boys and girls are invited and urged to go to the playgrounds and talk with the director. They are extremely anxious to interest all children in activities. It is their hope to give wholesome recreation to the largest possible number of children all summer.

Supervisor Heineman plans to show during the course of the season some of the work accomplished by inviting the public to attend short programs of games, dances, and drills. He hopes to close the season with a pageant in which children of all playgrounds will take part. Interested citizens with ideas or suggestions of any nature are encouraged to consult with Mr. Heineman or one of his assistants.

All boys who use the swimming beaches will be required to wear full suits.

In case of accident at the beaches Mr. Thompson requests that spectators and swimmers assist strictly and only the guard direct.

"One who wants to help shows an excellent spirit, but he should be sure to help in the right way, and not argue with a guard when a life may be in the balance," says Mr. Thompson.

"Unnecessary calls for help are a nuisance at every beach," he states. "We will ask people to abstain from such practice except in case of real necessity. The guards will do all any man can do. Until a boat can be secured for each side of the river we will request swimmers not to take any long chances."

COUPLE STILL HELD FOR CHICAGO POLICE

Six days ago Acting Chief of Police William E. Gower took into custody a couple who claim they are Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ryno. They were arrested by Chief Gower after he had been requested by the Chicago authorities to hold the couple for stealing household goods.

They were taken to the lockup and the Chicago police notified by Chief Gower. He was told that a detective would be sent after them but as yet no one has arrived.

The woman was placed in the woman's cell, which is an inside room with no natural light or any place where fresh air might enter.

Chief Gower yesterday took it upon himself to grant a woman permission to visit the couple for a few hours each day in the office of the station.

Chief Gower said today that he had again received word from Chicago that a man would be in Janesville today to take the couple back.

DR. NOLEN MEETS WITH PLANNING COMMITTEE

Dr. John Nolen will meet with several of the business men and members of the city planning committee at the Chamber of Commerce at 4:40 this afternoon, discussing the work which has been accomplished to date and his plans for the future. He will leave the city this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Farrington, and wife, were in Janesville Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Farrington spent Thursday at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O'Connor.

H. J. Johnson was a caller in this vicinity Sunday looking after his farm interests.

J. E. Farrington and family and J. E. Farrington and family spent Sunday at the J. Moore's.

CITY SCALAR QUITS

Milwaukee.—F. C. Janssen presented his resignation as city scalar to Mayor Hoan, Monday, to take effect immediately. His health is given as the reason for his resignation. Mr. Janssen had been obliged to spend the last two winters in California, returning here for the summer, but he finds that the sudden changes in the weather affect him so that he will be compelled to make the Pacific coast his permanent home.

When Mr. Janssen became city scalar there was one public market in the city. Now there are eight.

The annual meeting of the American Motor Insurance Co., Mutual, will be held at the home office of the Co. on W. Milwaukee St., Janesville, Wis., Saturday, June 28, at 10 A.M.

MARRIAGE LICENSE

Ernest Ebeling and Ida Lindermann, both of Beloit, have applied to County Clerk Lee for a marriage license.

"MA" BURDICK WILL ADDRESS WOMEN AT RECEPTION FRIDAY

"Ma" Burdick the woman who was awarded the Croix de Guerre for making doughnuts in France will be in Janesville, Friday evening, with "Pa" Burdick who chopped wood and rigged the seven-ton "M" Word has been received by Exalted Ruler Joseph Lecture, an employee of the Gazette, who said that the couple will arrive at 6:15 o'clock Friday morning.

McDonald, head of the Goose Island, who last evening and after a short time in the vicinity of the beach he started for the west bank of the river. He was accompanied by another lad. They reached their objective safely and after frolicking in the water for a short time they started on their return trip.

Just about mid-stream McDonald's party started calling for help and the people in both banks watched McDonald sink for the first time.

Local women will have an opportunity of meeting "Ma" Burdick at a reception to be held in the Library Hall at four o'clock Friday afternoon.

Lecture, who was preparing to dress after enjoying a swim, jumped in the water and started for the drowning boy.

He reached the lad just as he was sinking for the second time and after a heroic fight he succeeded in keeping the boy's head above the water until a boat arrived.

Mr. Lecture, who was employed at one time as a life saver in Chicago, worked over the boy during the trip to the shore. When the shore was reached the boy had recovered sufficiently to enable him to dress and go home.

Hundreds of persons lined both banks and watched Mr. Lecture in his heroic effort. Two other swimmers set out to assist in the rescue but the boy had been placed in the boat before they arrived.

Provide plenty of clean, dry nests for your hens.

Gather the eggs daily in cool weather and twice a day in hot or rainy weather.

Do not wash eggs. Use the dirty and small eggs at home.

Keep eggs in a cool, dry place, which is free from odors.

Don't sell incubator eggs. They are bad.

Marked your eggs daily, if possible; if not, every other day.

Don't sell eggs which were found in a stolen nest.

Don't sell eggs near oil, onions, etc., as they readily absorb odors.

Kill or sell all roosters as soon as the hatching season is over.

Under the laws in operation now in Wisconsin, farmers are subject to prosecution if they sell non-edible eggs.

It is the belief of Dairy and Food Commissioner Weigle that in a few years the results from the enforcement of the laws will bring Wisconsin farmers higher prices for their eggs than are received by the farmers of any other state.

The draft examination with their startling revelations of the prevalence of tuberculosis has shown the importance of agencies for the prevention of disease and resulted in a renewed effort in the campaign now in progress to establish a chain of public health dispensaries in Wisconsin. Nearly 3,000 Wisconsin men were disqualified from military service because of the disease. The final tabulation of the draft reject slips has shown that 62,000 men were rejected from the national army because medical examinations showed them tuberculous and that 20,000 soldiers were discharged for this reason after reaching camp.

The establishment of a public health dispensary is the best solution of the tuberculous draft reject and soldier problem, said Alfred C. Johnson, field worker for the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association in department of draft rejects and discharged soldiers.

Acting Chief of Police William E. Gower issued an order today for the leashing or muzzling of all dogs in the city. Mr. Gower said that the order was issued to guard against rabies.

"I was informed yesterday that one dog had died of rabies in the city during the past few weeks and in order to prevent an outbreak in this city it will be necessary to leash or muzzle the canines," Mr. Gower said.

"Bu-u-u I only wanted a license," exclaimed the "rabbie" man. He then rushed to the courthouse and demanded an explanation.

"I asked you if you wanted to be married and you said 'yes,'" said the clerk.

"Yes, but—"

"And you answered the questions of the wedding ceremony didn't you?" demanded the official.

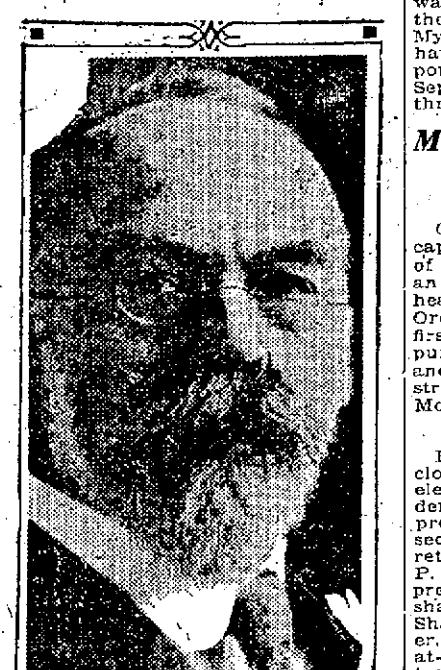

"Ceremony?" asked Katz. "I thought we were getting a license. We planned to be married Sunday."

"Well, you'll have to get a new license if you get married then," replied the official, as he wrote out a license.

DROWNING BOY IS RESCUED BY GAZETTE EMPLOYEE

William McDonough, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. WITH WOMEN OF TODAY

Miss Margaret Widdemer.

The prize offered every spring by an unknown donor at Columbia university to the author of the best book of verse published during the preceding year has just been divided between Miss Margaret Widdemer for her "Old Road to Paradise" and Carl Sandburg for his "Corn Huskers."

Sara Teasdale, who won the prize in 1917, William Lyon Phelps, professor of English at Yale, and Richard Burton, well known man of letters, were the judges in the contest.

Miss Widdemer is still in her twenties and she already has five novels to her credit: "The Rose Garden Husband," a best seller, much to her surprise, she says; its sequel, "The Wishing Ring"; "Why Not?" "You're Doing Once" and "I've Lost Lalage," a war birds story named from Kipling's poem. "Poems of Haunted Hour," an anthology of ghost poems, is to appear in the fall.

Miss Widdemer calls herself a "fashioned and free" and is what she thinks about her efforts:

"The desire to write poetry comes, I think, from the desire to construct something with which all of us are born. It may be to make hits, or to write verse. Usually we start hand at a good many things before we find out what it is we can do best. I tried writing music when I was a child, and I painted a little, and I made hats for my dolls and for myself."

"I imagine I was raised in an unusual fashion for this age. I feel as though I belong to a generation before I was taught to be one of those rare beings they call a 'fine lady.' I had to learn to do great many things—play and sing and sew. I still like to do them. I like to swim, to play tennis, to go to tea, to be among people. I don't believe in formulas. I have no 'goal' in writing. I like to write poetry better than anything else, but if I had to do it alone, I think it would become an annoyance. I think the cosmic urge of business or any other sort of literary self-consciousness is likely to have very poor results."

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a widower. He is about 15 years older than I and has one daughter. I also have one. Ever since I have gone with him he has talked of marriage, but we have never set the time. One night he came to see me and brought me a small diamond and a ring, but for one reason I did not accept it. Then he told me he had ordered me a small band ring, which I liked better. This was two months ago and he has never mentioned it since. I love him dearly and would hate to give him up. He is good to me and my daughter. He has a beautiful home, two farms and is in society. I have nothing. He has only taken me out three times and I have been going with him one year and four months.

I planned to take a trip this summer, but he doesn't want me to go because he thinks I will see other fellows. I know he is very jealous of me. I believe he loves me, but he has not told me about the ring. His daughter is in college. My daughter is only 12 years old and he often tells me that he is going to send her to college when she gets out of high school.

Do you think I should go to him when the band ring will be ready. Since you and he are engaged, there is no reason why you should be difficult about mentioning such a matter to him. You might also say that you would like to make some definite plans about your wedding day, so that you can prepare for the things that every woman likes to get ready. He will not be offended, since he loves you.

Let me warn you that the man enjoys staying at home or he would have taken you more places during so long an acquaintance. After you are married you cannot expect his character to change. If your nature requires diversity, consider the matter seriously before you marry him. Then after marriage, do not resent the fact the fact if he objects to going places with you.

I think you should go on the trip you plan and not humor him in his jealousy.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will you kindly tell me what effect lemon juice has on the hair when used not often, once a week and even then diluted with water? Could you tell me something to use to make my hair a lighter color and fluffy?

You can judge for yourself whether or not the lemon juice diluted with water is hurting the hair. If your hair is oily, I should judge that the lemon juice would add to its fluffiness.

But if the hair is dry, lemon juice will make it very dry and cause the ends to split. The use of lemon juice will tend to make the hair lighter. Do not use hair dye, because nature's color is after all the softest and most becoming.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a widow 59 years old and I would like to form the acquaintance of some gentleman a few years older, but I have no one to introduce me to any gentleman. I wish you would tell me what to do.

It is not good form for a woman to seek the acquaintance of a gentleman. She should be as charming as possible and wait for some gentleman to be attracted to her.

I thoroughly disapprove of match-making through my column and so I am unable to assist you.

My advice to you is the same as to every one else who is desirous of becoming acquainted with some of the opposite sex—go to church and tell the minister to help you meet some one.

BY ZOE BECKLEY

ANNIE GETS AN INVITATION.

"Oh, yes!" came the answer. Mr. Chester Brady, "Chet," shouted, bursting into the Hargan kitchen that night, waving her ten-dollar bill. "I'm a human being, dear! Not a machine any longer, not just a cog in a wheel to be driven and driven."

Aunt Margaret had a windfall that week, too. An author gave her a manuscript to type. It means a little financial margin for them all. To celebrate the new glory and the promise that sang in her heart of the better success to come, she hired her maid, Blanche, a slimy, fussy, prudish, rather stern-looking maid who had started in her factory days.

Regarding it in its noble postcard box, all decked up with pink tissue paper, Annie thought suddenly of Miss Wells and Settlement House, and the mortifying memory of her wild dream life. Little, tawny longings began to crest out like ghosts. What was it?—everything!

She shut the waist in its box and shoved it under her bed. She wore it to the office Saturday. All the girls "dressed up" a little then and most of them had engagements for the half-holiday. It was a bright warm September day. Blanche had actually stayed at home for an elderly gentleman, master of golf, and the office relaxed a bit more than usual.

The telephone burped, and when Annie stuck the plug in (she never bent them twisted any more) and listened, a "youthful" feminine voice asked, "Is Mr. Brady there?"

"Mr. Brady?" puzzled Annie. "Are you sure he's with this office—Blanche & Orritt?"

TABOO AND TOBACCO

Having taken a few puffs, and every man seems to be impelled to go home and beat his wife and curse his children. Having been arrested for some heinous crime, he is a wretched soul, except that he did not know what he was doing by reason of the tobacco he had used. For such reasons as these there is some ground to believe that Little Nell is going to live long, long after J. Darley's.

Still and all, anything and every thing is justifiable to keep tobacco out of the hands of youths. Whether the use of tobacco—the average adult, I suppose—is debatable; but no physician will deny that the use of tobacco by immature boys is a detriment physically, mentally and morally.

There is an impulse in youth that demands an outlet. "Let's go." What no suitable outlet is available for this impulse easily leads to moral misconduct, instead of "going" for instance, the youth resorts to a substitute instead of gratifying the instinctive desire for activity, adventure, excitement, physical competition, the youth takes a cigarette to quiet the desire he rolls a cigarette, unless you have a secret desire for "looseness." Any physical director or trainer with any experience at all knows that the lad who smokes is no good. A university professor told me the other day that he had been looking into the records for several years and found that of several hundred students who had won scholarships there had been but one who used tobacco. When you see a high school lad or a college lad under 21 with a cigarette stuck in his attenuate face you may be sure that lad is getting precious little physical education.

Taboo is still reigning in popular education in the country. Taboo is the magic word that blots out the existence of everything human from the neck down. The average boy of education looks upon the young of the human animal as a hypothetical creature consisting of a brain, a pair of weak eyes, two delicate ears, a tremendous mouth and a pair of superfluous hands. This hypothetical creature has other organs or appurtenances worthy of the consideration of educators. In fact it is considered rather low-brow and the average boy is not in polite circles that the creature is alive but in the collar bones.

Don't boys caricatures of the clothing ads, cigarette sissies, and imitation chorus ladies are the natural product of the highbrow high school. The poor dopes have to make a bee-line from graduation to the drugstore to buy a package of hyperbolized iced something. Edited by W. P. W.

ANSWER.—"Water in the Morning."

Should one drink a glass of water the first thing in the morning? Let me tell you, if you do, you should do the water hot, cool, or ice cold? What about the addition of a pinch of salt to the water? Is it always harmful to drink water in the morning?

ANSWER.—Drink one or more glasses of water on rising, if desired. Many people do not drink enough water. At least three pints should be taken every day. Cool water is usually preferable to hot water more acceptable to some in-

Do Your Room in Cretonne for the Summer, Is Expert's Suggestion

BY ELOISE

If you are furnishing your country house or if you are fitting up your town house for summer use do not forget the dainty and attractive cretonne which launders so well and give such a bright and cheery look to even the darkest room. their sun room a veritable haven of cheerfulness, in fact they may use it throughout their five-rooms-and-a-bath with a more than pleasing effect. Overstuffed furniture which is warm and sometimes prickly may be covered with dainty cretonne which will make it more comfortable and will protect the expensive upholstery from the dust and dirt which is always present when the windows are open.

The cretonne set for the corner of the bedroom, the sitting room or the sunroom, is of blue, rose and daffodil yellow. There is a sewing room at the left which may be carried wherever one wishes to do the mending. It is fitted with pouches, pockets, pin cushions, trays and places to put thread and scissors and the like. The desk set to match has a blotter, candy box, pad, writing paper boxes, pen racks, ink well and desk calendar all trimmed with cretonne. The desk itself is hand-deco-

Water and Air.

Water in contact with the air absorbs its carbonic acid in a decidedly practical degree. In densely populated districts this is of considerable importance. The difference is perceptible to the sense after a long drought, as the common expression "refreshing showers" indicates.

A DISCOVERY THAT BENEFITS MANKIND

Two discoveries have added greatly to human welfare.

In 1835 Newton originated the vacuum process for condensing milk with cane sugar to a semi-liquid form.

In 1883 Horlick at Racine, Wis., discovered how to reduce milk to a dry powder form with extract of malted grains, without cane sugar.

This educational work has been undertaken by the war council of the W. C. A. in response to an appeal from educators to lessen in some small degree the ignorance of women and girls along health lines.

It was expected that a film called "The Beginnings of Life" which is entirely educational in its nature and which is being shown now in the cities of the state, could be brought here but owing to an engagement in Milwaukee could not be released for this week.

Chicago Grain Review. The corn market is unsettled today, varying up and down, but has been only discounted in advance, contributing to the initial weakness. The July option was rather firm than the market nominal monthly. Selling was induced at a break early in the session. Opening prices which ranged from 3¢ higher to 1¢ lower with July 1.79¢, September 1.84¢, October 1.84¢, November 1.85¢ were followed by slight declines. Later the market crept away from the low point.

The market continued to strengthen, corn being held a pronounced factor and late in the session prices were well away from the early figures. The market closed June 25 to 1¢ higher July 1.80¢, August 1.81¢, September 1.82¢ to 1.83¢, October 1.83¢ to 1.84¢, November 1.84¢.

Outs sagged with corn. After opening unchanged at 33¢ to 33½¢, the market sagged on all deliveries but later advanced fractionally with corn.

Provision prices moved in sympathy with corn products, settling from 5¢ to 5½¢ lower.

OLD SETTLERS' PICNIC HELD AT COOKSVILLE

Cooksville, June 28.—The Old Settlers' picnic and reunion has been and gone. The nineteenth of June was an ideal day. Old Glory hung limp until noon, then a breeze flooded the flag, and soon the autos began to come after the dinner was over, the program given. Opened with Crystal Lee at the organ. Mrs. Cora Atwood, Janesville, gave a talk on the Belgians and Red Cross work. A song was followed by an encore by Miss Lucille Johnson. Miss Amy Richardson gave a recitation. Susan Porter who had just come from Racine where she had taught the past year, gave an interesting talk. Mr. and Mrs. Alford from Madison gave a talk followed by Miss Leila Low.

Will Gilrick as president, threatened to tell something about everyone who would not respond when called upon. He did tell a good one on Joe Porter, Sr. Mr. Wallin, Fultton, told of killing a rattlesnake in earlier days that had 12 rattles. Misses W. and W. from Madison were present. Mrs. Amy Richardson, Janesville, next spoke of Mrs. J. F. from California.

What a surprise most of them would have been to reckon she stopped laughing. In her dining room, living room and kitchen alone (that tool in silver and china of course) she soon had over two thousand dollars.

"It would come a good deal nearer six," I said. She laughed at me but when we fell to reckoning she stopped laughing.

Double What I Had Thought Adequate Insurance.

Having occasion to shift some inven-

ture to a summer camp and having previously insured only in the haphazard manner, I decided to take a pencil and go about the house figuring

what I could really afford to replace furniture, clothes, jewelry, etc.

When I had gotten my figures down and added them up I stared at them in amazement and then added again.

But I had been right the first time.

The total was more than double what

I had thought was a generous insurance. Moreover I had deliberately left out some things which I could want to replace and had made the value low on others. Furthermore,

in the days that followed I kept discovering things that had been unintentionally left out, my bag and suitcase, my trunk, a clothes' basket, (once such a humble thing that one would not bother to count it at all but nowadays there is practically nothing that has a name in price) the bathroom mirror, etc., etc.

That is another interesting thing about such an inventory. It shows one where some one's money has gone. Of course, that doesn't bring back any of it, but it is something.

Take a block of paper and a well sharpened pencil and try it some evening.

Incidentally the possession of such an inventory would make adjusting

the fire when it comes to your house.

What Is Your Furniture Worth? Did you ever make an inventory of your household goods?

If you never did I think you would find it an interesting and eye opening exercise.

Theoretically everyone is supposed to do that before putting a value on their furniture and clothing for insurance. Actually, I think, the majority of people name some lump sum which sounds fairly large to them and let it go at that.

Willard Will Win in Six Rounds, Says Expert

By George McManus.

DEMPESEY IS FAST BUT NOT BIG ENOUGH

By N. E. BROWN
Toledo, O., June 25.—Lives there a man with sporting instinct so dead who sometime to himself or somebody else has not said, "Demsey (or Willard) will win the fight?"

There does not.

Having picked the winner himself, he is interested in knowing whether the other folk agree or disagree with him.

So, for the benefit of those who have been following my discussions, here goes my hunch:

Willard will win in six rounds.

I have watched the men in training, have chatted with them outside the dole car, and have perused the dope carefully.

I pick Willard on the comparative size of the man today; their general condition today and the general conditions surrounding the coming bout, at Toledo, July Fourth.

I have passed up the dope entirely. To my mind, the dope leads nowhere.

Why?

What the Dope Does Show

You can point to the string of thirty-two knockouts Dempsey has to his credit in a short time he has been starting. You can point out the fact that he showed to better advantage against men both met, than did Willard.

So far, so good, but:

He has no victory over a champion—and Jack Johnson at that—so his credit. Everyone will admit that his fighting brain and considerable physical endurance when he met Willard. And Willard today is a better fighter all around that he was then. Poor old Jim Flynn knocked Jack Dempsey cold with a wallop on the law. Compare Flynn's wallop to Willard's.

So much for the dope. The only thing it shows is that Dempsey stands out head and shoulders, figuratively speaking, above the army of alleged heavyweights. But that does not indicate how Dempsey stacks up against Willard.

In picking Willard to win I do not mean to belittle Dempsey as a fighter. As I have said before, he is the fastest type I have ever seen. No doubt he compares well with Corbett as far as speed is concerned. I think of all the heavyweights and alleged heavyweights Dempsey is the logical man to attempt to snatch the crown from Willard's head.

But it can't be done. The bird who can tick Jess Willard hasn't shown up on the horizon yet.

Willard's reach and immense size and weight, coupled with a fair amount of speed will spell defeat for the challenger.

Willard Will Check Attack

Dempsey plans to place all his hopes in boring through Willard's reach and hammering Willard's chin until the big boy drops. No doubt Dempsey will manage to break through Jess' face, and his right. But, in my opinion, his attack will be checked and Willard's middle so well protected by the time Dempsey gets in that his blows will not be as effective as planned. Willard is centering his training on preparing that stomach of his to withstand what blows do land.

Against a man as tall as Willard, Dempsey cannot hope to keep his head well protected while playing from Willard's middle. When Dempsey is crouched low for action, Willard can strike over Dempsey's guard, so to speak. And if Willard over connects solidly with Dempsey's jaw, I believe it will spell the end for Dempsey.

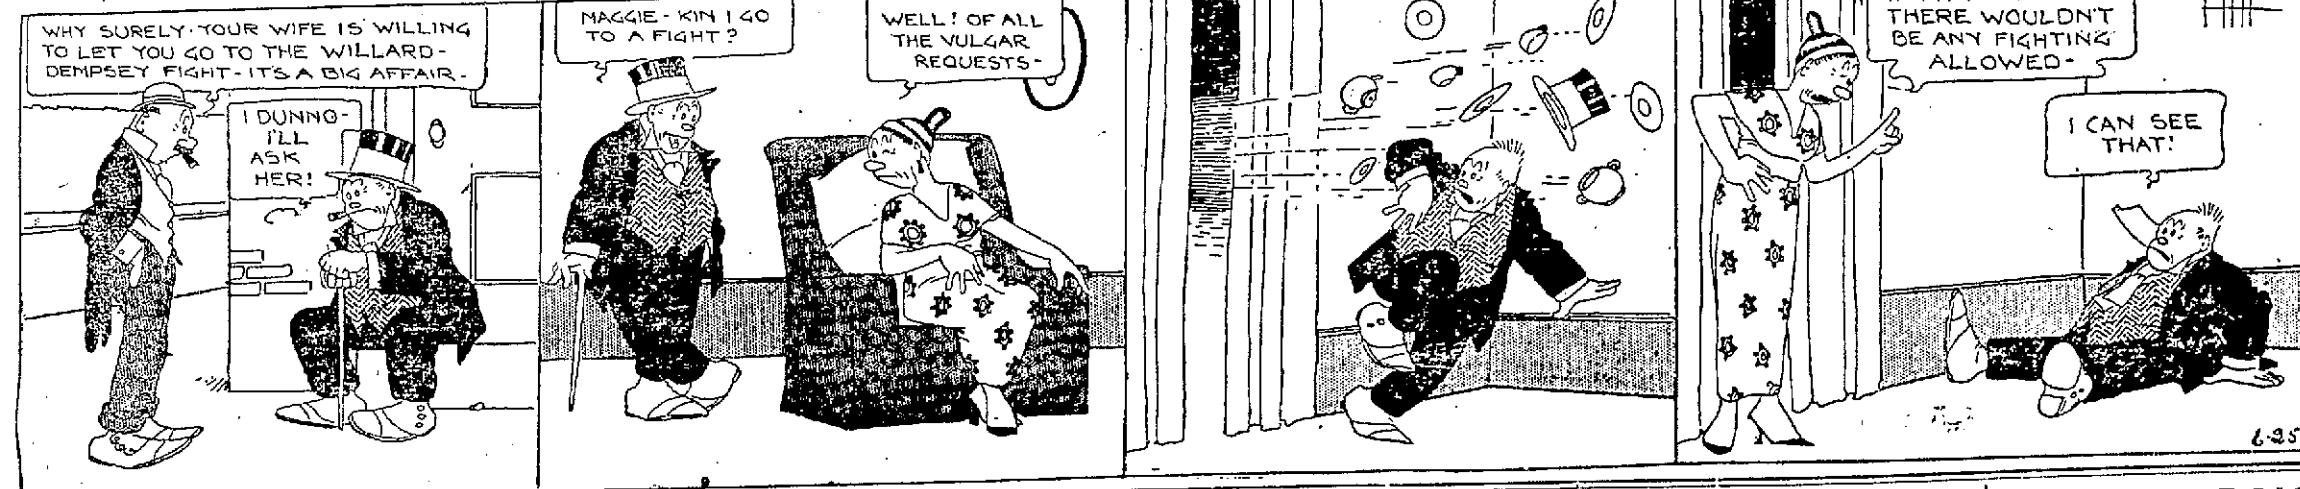

I look for Willard to tire Dempsey. Dempsey has shown in his workouts that he is a powerful, full-type of fighter. He has shown by his crashing attack against his opponent that his rushing tactics are one of his big assets. But against Willard he will be rushing in glint. He will be striving continually to make a man fifty pounds heavier than himself give way. Willard can lean his great bulk on the challenger in the clinches and use his weight in many ways to tire Jack and eventually halt his rushes.

Willard Has Killing Blow

Little has been said about Willard's uppercut—the blow that killed Bull Young. But it must be considered seriously. In the first place, because Dempsey is much shorter, that blow will not have to travel far. Where Willard will start it, I consider the situation. Willard's great mitt will probably slightly before and below his chest when he starts the uppercut. Dempsey's chin will be on a level with Jess' chest. This means the blow will not have to travel but a few inches.

There you have it.

BRINGING UP FATHER

SPORT SNAP-SHOTS

BY JACK KEENE

In the spring of 1917, there were three recruits possessing unusual ability in the All-Stars, which was assembled at the training camp in Marion. They were Ross Young, bought as an outfielder from the Sherman Club of the Western Association; Pete Kilduff, also an infielder, purchased from the Omaha Club of the Western League, and Al Baird, an infielder, too, and a product of the Louisiana State University.

All three showed up very well in the first games and when the day arrived for the squad to start northward, John McGraw assigned Young to the second team and kept Kilduff with the regulars. Just before the championship season opened, Young, after playing something on the part of his two rivals, was sent to the Rochester club of the International League. Kilduff remained with the club and later played frequently as a substitute for Charlie Herzog, who was injured that spring. Baird, under a special agreement with the club, was not included in the number of players retained under the player limit and did not play until the middle of September, when the Giants had clinched the pennant and the player limit was removed.

In midseason, McGraw, desperate for a right handed pitcher who could win some games, traded Kilduff to Chicago for Al Demaree. The trade was an unequal one and was justified only by the emergency which the Giant leader faced. Young meanwhile had been converted into an outfielder for Rochester and came back to the club in the fall.

Last year Willard and Kilduff were in the navy and Young, only 20 years of age, played his first season as a regular in a major league. Today

Willard can put power in that short punch. The punch and speed he carries in his arms are concealed by their great length and Willard's general build. In his training the punches that set him apart from Temple and his other allies to a sitting posture did not seem to be hard ones. His punches are what may be called heavy.

Dempsey, of course, cannot hope to do anything with Willard's jaw or head. The challenger would have to swing his glove above his head to land on Jess' cheek. That he realized this is shown by the fact that he pays little attention to Big Bill Tamm's head while working out with the Willard-size sparring mate.

Willard is a brainier man than Dempsey. He will plan and execute his own battle in the ring. Dempsey can't take Jack Kearns and Jimmy De Forest into the ring with him. Dempsey will be up against something besides Willard's size and weight and reach in the ring. That something is Willard's sharp wit and his sarcastic remarks. Of course, how far this will bother the youngster cannot be determined.

Dempsey Has One Chance

Dempsey's only chance, I believe, is the one he banks on, namely, a dashing, rushing, plunging attack on Willard's middle. Against the Willard who met Moran three years ago or against the Willard who started training five or six weeks ago for the training mill, Dempsey would have a fine chance. Willard was soft at the times mentioned and was flabby. His wind and strength was lacking. But I don't think there's a chance for Dempsey against Willard as Jess will be July Fourth, judging from Willard's condition now.

I believe that Dempsey will fight his heart out in an attempt to land the crown. He is the man to tackle the job. He will be the crowd will be with him and assist him. But I firmly believe that he will tire himself out, shoot his wad—in the first half of the scheduled distance, and then Willard will crush his hopes with a well-directed blow to the jaw.

There you have it.

How They Get Around It in Capital City

WASHINGTON—A grave error must be charged against Congressman James A. Galligan, Massachusetts, who in the course of an address at Boston on the horrors of a dry regime, spoke in part thus:

"I have seen men in congress, when Washington was wet, under the influence of liquor at midnight; but since Washington has been dry it has been wet under the influence of Mr. Galligan."

Now, in taking account of Mr. Galligan's error, we will be so bold as to question his veracity when he tells of seeing some of his associates in a partially pickled condition at high noon. Our quarrel must be with the general impression likely to be conveyed by such statement. The implication is wrong, false, improper, and unjustified. A careful investigation yields the following:

"Most of our congressmen do not get out of bed until mid-day approaches. The sessions begin at 12, and the accepted program is to give oneself time for toilet and break before departing to the capitol. Only a hardened sinner would so hasty matters as to accumulate even a small sum by noon."

"The truth we are reliably informed is that Congressmen begin showing up in the House chamber about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. That's such congressmen as like liquor, or who are so unfortunate as not to be able to carry it well."

HOW DROUGHT AFFECTS CAPITAL

Washington has been nominally dry for several months, and its experience may be illuminating to sections

"Over the line in Virginia they are making fearful and wonderful whiskey, in home-cigged stills. It is strong raw, rude and ugly, and its effects are appalling. It makes men crazy. We see some of it here in Washington. They sold hen whiskey."

"Who knows, but what they may have stumbled accidentally upon an explanation for many of the recent curious doing on Capitol Hill?"

Before the first Brunswick Tire was ever built, we analyzed and tested over 200 tires.

Since 1845 the name of Brunswick has stood for superlative values and fair-dealing.

Tires Differ As Policies Differ

Some Remarkable Facts About Brunswicks

THERE is nothing to prevent any maker from producing a super-tire. All formulas, all methods are well known in the industry. A perfect tire is simply a question of care and skill and cost. These facts can be verified by testing 200 types of high-grade tires and analyzing their materials and construction—as the Brunswick laboratories have done.

In a super-tire, such as The Brunswick, there can be nothing exclusive. Because such a tire must be a composite of all that is best. No one feature must overshadow others.

In Brunswick Tires, for instance, we have included that familiar formula, long in use, which makes the best tire tread that's known.

And there's a certain type of fabric which, by test, is stronger than all others. Naturally it is in The Brunswick.

To attain the utmost in tire mileage there are certain reinforcements—certain extras. We have adopted all.

To combat the commonest tire troubles, we have adopted the approved side-wall construction, long tested.

In other words, The Brunswick brings you a combination of supremacies, such as were never possible before.

In attaining a tire worthy of the name of Brunswick we were convinced that it depended chiefly on policies and standards, on prejudices and knowledge. Brunswick Standards are known the world around. For 74 years the House of Brunswick has worked in rubber—long before automobiles were known.

Every Brunswick product has attained and held supremacy. The name always insures superlative values. To build a mediocre tire would be unthinkable for such a concern, jealous of its long-standing reputation.

The Brunswick idea is to give all that is possible, all that anyone can give—all that any factory cost can buy.

The result is a tire that is winning friends the nation over. In The Brunswick motorists expect the utmost—and get it. Never has a tire had greater appeal to the man who appreciates real merit.

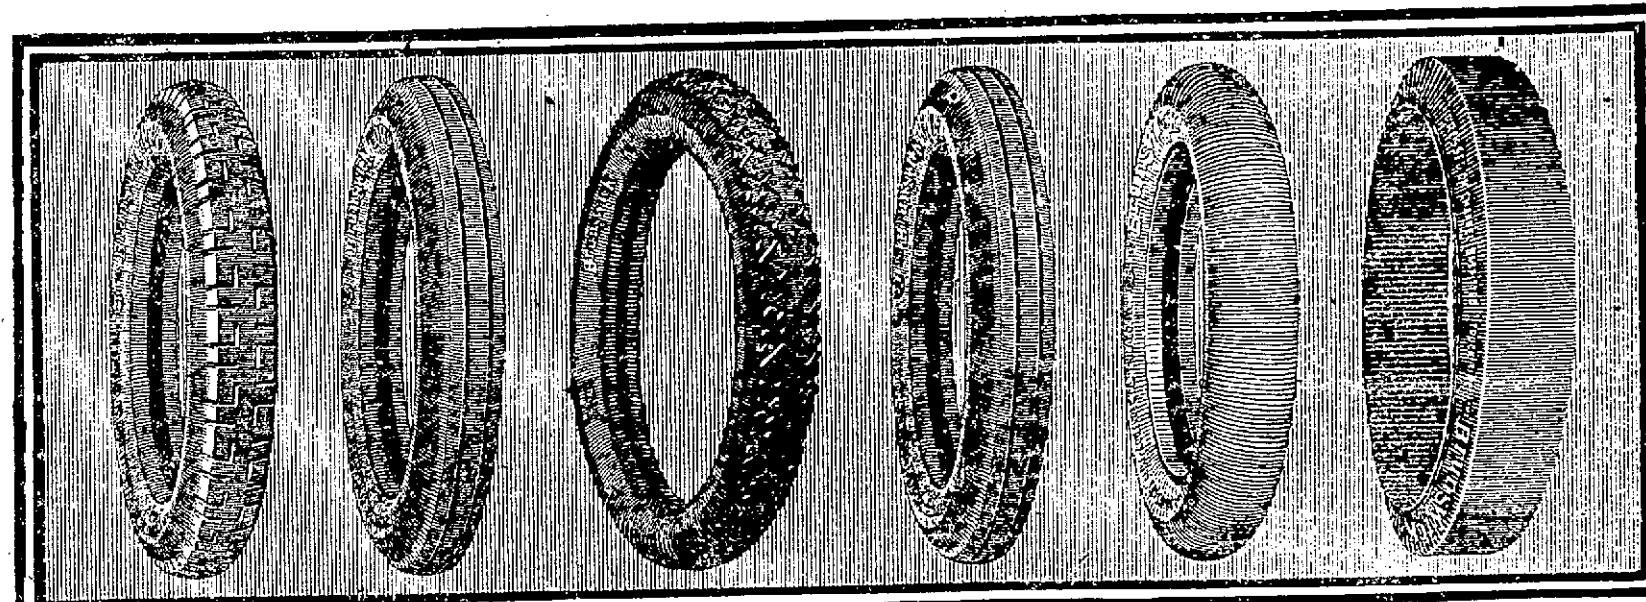

Try one Brunswick. See if you agree with others that here is more for your money. One Brunswick, we are certain, will convince you that you'll never be satisfied until you have all Brunswicks.
